THE EARLIEST MAN.

As to the age of the prehistoric human Skeleton found near Inswich, Professor | Departure from Macao at 5 F.M. Keith, the anthropologist at the museum of the Royal College of Surgeons, says :-

"There is every evidence that this man lived long before the Glacial period. During this period, England was covered with a great thickness of ice. Finally this melted. and a large quantity of debris was deposited, and it was underneath a deposit of this sort that the skeleton was found. Hence the man must have lived long before the Joe Age and before the rivers were formed.

"The finding of this skelston strongthens the belief that the evolution of man was an infinitely longer process than we originally thought ... At one time the believers in the evolution theory thought that man's development to his present state might have taken, something like ten thousand years. Later they put the period around 120,000. The differences, if any, between this man's bony framework and modern man's are so minute as to prove that evolution must have taken hundreds of thousands of years.

This discovery shows the England was inhabited as early if not earlier than at Continental country."

It seems abourd, remarks the Singapore Free Press, that the decision as to whether two people were legally married or no should hang on the quest on of their having had pickled fea at the wedding breakfast. That, however, was solumnly argued before the Privy Council on Jan. 26th, and it is not quite as absurd as it looks. The appear was one from Burmah, and it seems than pickled tes is almost as essential there to a legal wedding as the licence over here. The case is a curious example of what mazes of strange law an Imperial judiciary has to sommeter.

the Naval forces were lost : the moment Hanyang was reconquered Nanking fell The power of the Government over the waterways and the sea was gone and the sources of revenue were cut off. Although in various ways I encouraged the military n greater effort, secured the revocation of Shantung's declaration of independence, subdued the capital of Shansi and Loyang, recaptured the region around Ta-t'ung-la and did all in my power to prop up the North, so that it might enjoy a certain degree of peace, yet the tide was too strong and swept every locality. Societies among the people were scattered everywhere: defense, this defense I found impossible to grateful recompense.

Moreover, at this time there was international intervention and it was requested that in the interests of homsnity a truce be declared and negotiations undertaken. Perforce therefore there began conferences between the representatives. and an edict was issued decreeing the fixing of the form of government by popular

My course and shraugth were exhausted and I had no resource. I seem blace the occupity first in importance and making the peace of lices above and the water of those below my object, yield myself to the distance of the majority.

"An edict was issued by Hor Imperial Majesty directing me first to settle with the Revolutionary Army regarding the especial consideration to be accorded the Imperial Family and the treatment of Manchus, Mongolians, Mohammedans and Tibetans. In this the Throne chose the lessor evil, in a spirit of bitter and hopeless dejection.

"If an agreement could be reached by the two sides and posce declared, then the Imperial Family might onjoy glory and honor unknown to former generations and the hereditary nobility among the Manches, Mongols, Mohammedans, and Tibetans, and the allowances of the Bannermen might continue without interruption. This course was inexpressibly better than to await the final separation with its incalculable

SPORTING.

The fifth test match was resumed to-day at Sydney. The wicket was rather slow and occasionally bumpy, due to heavy rain overnight. There was a large attendance of spectators. The M.C.C. team were all out for 324. Woolley played a masterly innings, carrying his bat for 133, induding twelve 4's. The Australians at the close of play had lost five wickets for 135. 313 Stumps had to be drawn at 5.45; as the light was bad. Bowling for Australia Macartney took wicket for 26, Flordern five for 95, Haylite three for 75, and Armstrong one for 42: The English bowling analysis reads-Forster none for 15, Barnes two for 41,

NEWS FROM HOME.

(From Our Oton Correspondent.) LONDON, February T. CHRISAN COLLEGE NE LERNITERS

Before long German university mon in the War East are likely to hear from home a new movement started by the Kalser to link up the ex-students and their alms mater, no matter where they may be. America has some of these college fraternities and the Emperor deplores. the absence of associations of fellowships of German students that will keep former students at the principal colleges and gymnasia in Germany in touch with each

English universities have not taken this kind of thing up very systematically, though the Oxford and Cambridge Unions. and sundry clubs in London restricted to university men, and a few Masonic lodges, take the place of the fraternities to some

LASCARS HOT FIGHT.

Birkenhead docks are not noted for gentle manners, but the men who foregather there had a thrill the other day that eclipsed any "scrap" of the past twelve months. The Bibby liner Herefordshire, lying in the Float, was staking coal prior to her trip to Rangoon, when the pesceful if grimy scone auddenly developed warfare of a sanguinary kind. The Lascars are, of course, quick to take offence, so when a fireman came along and picked up a can of water they were heating at the fire hostilities began between seamen and firemen in the twinkling of an eye. The disputants made for the poop-deck where the fight extended, the lascars using iron bars or anything that came handy. These they used with deadly effect and the Serangs were quite powerless to induce the lasents to suspend their rain of blows. At last the officers were summoned and drove the men below at the point of their gevolvers, but not till the deck looked like a shambles; for blood was spilled all about and twenty men had to be treated at the hospital.

GOVERNMENT JOBS. The Insurance Bill promises to create the largest official department under the Crown, so far as the number of the staff is concerned. There will be insurance commissioners, inspectors and any amount of other billets to be filled, and ever since the Bill was passed applications have fairly rained in. Now the Civil Service commissioners have been called irr to lend a hand with the avalanche of letters, politions recommendations, political testinguish and the like. . Ireland alone has sent ten thousand applications for jobs and though the announcement was made that to bring political pressure to bear would disqualify the applicant the pressure is being brought all the same, and there are Mark Tapleys enough in these islands just now to stock the entire empire. But when the authorities came to contemplate the army of untried officials trying to carry out the provisions of the Actcomplicated enough in all conscience—they were appalled. So they have taken many civil servants as they can from the Customs, Excise and other departments where the men have had training not merely in indoor administration but also in dealing direct with the outside public. After the chief jobs have been filled with these civil servants the subordinate positions will "be occupied by selected applicants, preferably officials benefit societies coming under the Act. who have had experience of dealing with sickness and out of work 314 pay among the poorer classes. But in Ireland the societies of that kind are few. so there will be a lively scramble for places and it is to be leared that there will be a good deal of political wirepulling first and a good deal of friction afterwards. The new department evidently appeals to the Civil Service, for when the terms of the positions were issued and applications weight invited first of all from the Civil Service, the applications for transfer startled the officials. Evidently the men look for quicker promotion and enugger billets in now department that has every appearance of growing to great dimensions ...

CABINET TROUBLES. The speech by Mr. J. M. Robertson throwing cold water on the idea that Ireland should have fiscal freedom has greatly annoyed many Trishmen. The outlook is by no means gay for the Cabinet. They are credited with considering a compromise on this Irish fiscal freedom matter. This is to be on the line that the Imperial Exchequez should control Irish Customs and Excise until the Irish land loan is liquidated say about ten years. However, much may happen before that comes to

TOWN PLANNING IN INDIA.

Not only the public buildings of the new capital of India, but also the residences of the higher officials, will have to be built on the Plain outside the present city of Deihi; for the area enclosed between the Jumpa and the city walls is already fully occupied, and is not suitable for the residence of the higher classes of public servants. "Though no city in India has finer streets than the main thoroughfares of Delhi, the smaller streets are narrow and tortuous, and in many cases end in culs-de-sac.

At the Sanitary Conference held in Bonibay last month the president, Sir Harcourt Butler, who has the Sanitary Department as well as education under his charge, gave ...F1. 45,000,000 (£3,750,000), some"hints of future openings for townplanning in India. He is understood to have expressed the belief that the time is BRANCHES :- Singapore, Penang, on new and scientific lines of building than Shanghai, Rangoon, Samarang, Sourabaya, by the enormously costly improvements in Djember, Cheribon, Tegal, Pecalongan, Tillatian, Bandoeng, Padang, Medan, big cities, such as have been carried out, Tebing Tinggi (Deli), Palembang, Rotafor example, in Bombay.

shock of the Mutiny, Delhi has made stoady progress in the last few decades. Its populathe last census. Its increase of 11.6 per cent. for the past decade was the more noteworthy since the city, in common with the Punjab generally, suffered severely from plague, and the province actually declined in population during the period.

Though followed somewhat closely by Lahore, the capital of the local Government Delhi is the most populous city in the Punjab. The increases of recent decades have been largely due to the developmen. of the mill industries which the steady improvement of railway communication has helped to foster. There are cloth and cot ou-spinning and weaving mills, flour INTEREST allowed on Current Account mills, sugar-cane pressing factories, and Karachi on the one hand and Rajputana and a system of castes differing alike from on the other, and is within easy access of those of Bengal and Madras, Both in Chota Barry the great-industrial centra of Campore. Nagpar and Orista there is wide scope for An incidental effect of the transfer of the capital thither will be to stimulate the growing importance of Karachi, since that port is much mearer to Delhi than either Eombay or Calcutta.

THE BEHAN CAPITALO Patna, now raised to the dignity of a provincial capital, has historio associations which, from the Hindu point of view, are definite and more gratifying than even those of Delhi itself. As Pataliputra it was the capital of Northern India under the great Chandragupta, the Sandrokottos of the Greeks, during whose reign it was the residence of the Greek envoy Megasthenes (302-297 B. 1.). Here, too, the great Asoka reigned for 40 years, and, though after his death it disappeared from historic terond Empire, that of the Gupta kings It is thus a city which appears strongly to bolk Hindu and Buddhist septiment. while in medicaral times it came under the governorship of Azim grandson of Autaov. Situated on the right bank of the Games, and 379 villed from Coulontee by the Range

Though it has somewhat declined of late years, its commanding position for both rail and river traffic enables it to hold its centres of the Bengal provinces, ranking next to Calcutta, indeed, in size. The census of ten years ago reported a decline of no less than 18 per cent, but as plague was then raging a second enumeration was effected in July 1901, when more normal conditions prevailed. Even then the de crosse was 7 per cent., and the decay has not been arrested in the intervening ten years, for the census figure of 153.739 last; March is 11.4 per cent, less than the second enumeration of 1901- and 1 per cent. less than that taken during the plague

THE NEW PROVINCE. It was early in the 13th century that Behar, coming into Moslem hands, was formed into a soparate subsh or governorship. Its area is 44,259 square miles, and its population is about 14 millions. An coming in India when sanitation will be important point in connexion with the attained rather by the extension of towns rearrangements about to be made is that when the province of Eastern Bengal and Assam was constituted in 1905 the com plaint that the hill station of Darjeeling would case to be under the Calcutta Government was mot by transferring the Darjeeling district from the Rajshahi division, then brought under the Daces Government, to the Beghalpur division of > therefore, existing boundaries are adhered to it will in future be within the charge of the Lieutenant-Governor of Behar, Chota Nagpur, and Orises. In one respect at least this arrangement would be satisfactory, for the Lieutenant-Governor will have within his territories no other station suitable as a summer residencewith the very dubious exception of Ranchi, which is off the Chota Nagpur plateau, about 2,100ft, shove sea level. It has already been intimated that the Governor of Bengal will spend part of his time at Dacca; but it is doubtful whether he can confine his residence throughout the year to that city and Calcutta, oren with the addition of Chittagong, where the Though it was long recovering from the Lieutenant-Governor of Eastern Bengal has resided for a short period each year. Though nothing has yot been decided, it tion, 173,393 in 1881, atoud at 232,837 at | may be that Derjeeling will be re-transferred to the Rajshahi division, and that the way will thus be opened for the Bengal Governor to divide his time between the plains and the hills. The Chots Nagpur division of the new charge is steadily growing in numbers and prosperity, its population in the last ten years lim British districts having increased from 4,900,000 to 5,695,000. There are also some 150,000 dwellers in native States. Ite recent development is due to the growing utilization of its mineral wealth. Th great coalfields of Giridib, Jherriah, and Daltonganj are within its limits, as are the new works of the Tata Iron and Steel Company. lowever. It is this: What are the borrow money? Foreign capitalists require security and guarantees . to garding the proper application of the money they propose to lend and they disclose her ideas on the subject

Now as Sir Robert reminds us

China wants to go into the open market like any other borrower and get the best terms she can from anyone who is willing to lend. ... She does not want to be bound to borrow from this or that syndicate of any particular nationality, and she is suspicious of all syndicates which have the appearance of being backed by Foreign Offices, suspecting that they will be used by the latter for political purposes; and, above all things, she dreads and will contest to the utmost of her weakness, any attempt to Egyptianise

Chinese finance. That China's financial regeneration, including currency reform, cannot be properly conducted without foreign financial help, in the honest belief of most foreigners who have studied the question, but that any foreign adviser can be found with the requisite knowledge to render him capable of taking Chinese finance bodily in hand does not at the moment seem possible. No foreigner could expect or would get the necessary authority to do so, unless Ching is not only Egyptianised, but Indianised

Still the difficulty must be got over somehow or other. Sir ROBERT does want, and what it is to her own interest that she should have, is an adequate system of national banking, a proper system of accounting and a proper system of financial control, as well as a proper system of audit.

These obtained, and accounts published under the supervision of foreign employees selected by herself, the actual details can be carried on by Chinese hands, of which there are an abundance, with sufficient capacity to do the work. The establishment of a control to some such extent may be any loans on a large scale, and China sense in adopting it." But while it is easy to argue thus most people nowadays are fully aware that China dreads the very first suspicion of placing herself entirely at the mercy of foreign money-lenders. Great as are the benefits which she has derived from the example of integrity and honesty set by the Imperial Maritime Customs she does not look upon that must be borne in mind by all who discuss the problem of foreign loans.

The New China will be very sensitive upon the point because it has not yet digested, much less begun to assimilate; the ideas on political economy which its students have brought home from Ynle. Harvard, Cambridge, London, Heidelburg, Paris or Tokyo.

LOANS TO CHINA

air is full of ramours these days of the loans which China is seeking from the outer world. All the big nations have been approached and according to latest reliable authority Japan, despite her own well-known impecuniosity, has claimed," for political reasons, the right to share in any international loan that, may be raised. And that right has been admitted, though there was one dissentient when the matter was voted upon by the Cabinet in Nanking. China will want a good deal of money if she is to start the various schemes propounded by the reformers with any reasonable prospect of success. Sir Kobert Bredon, who speaks with some authority, puts down the amount at 800,000,000 tack, or £100,000,000 sterling, which will be required in the next two years. That is a very large sum and we are not surprised that the late acting Inspector-General of the Imperial Chinese Customs is not sanguine of Europe and America putting their hands quite so deeply into their pockets with China at her present stage of development. But must obtain it from outsiders, for if the Revolution has accomplished nothing else it has clearly demon strated what many observant foreigners had long ago declared to be the case, that she has no surplus capital available for either exploitation development. Then how much can she afford to borrow at the present moment? Sir ROBERT BREDO thinks that louns aggregating £10.000,000 should be the limit at

SCOTTISH SPORT

(From Our Own Correspondent) EDINBURGH, Fabruary II.

Interest in the Rugby world was contred in two games in Edinburgh. At Caiglook hart, the unbeston Edinburgh University mot the Waternians, The first meeting of the two Clubs this season resulted in a draw with no scoring, and was remarkable for determined marking and teckling; this return match was characterised rather by force of play than the number of individual runs and passing movements. The University were unfortunate in having to take the field without four of their internationalists, - Mackensie, Taylor, M'Coumell, and S. B. B. Campbell, the but two being ergaged at Twickenham. They put un a magnificent fight however, and play the impression of being slightly the more dangerous side. For their ability to put up this close fight, the University were indebted chiefly to their forwards. The Watsonians were superior behind, and owed their win to the brilliance of Pearson, who cleverly engineered two of the socres. For the day, he quite outplayed Angus,but then Angua was injured during the game, and had to play softly. Pearson had not much rope in the second half . Owler did little else than look after him, and did it most effectively. Indeed the marking Thirty-four Chinese were to day charged by Oaler and Huggan of the opp sing centres was one of the features. After Pearson, Timms was the best of the Watsonian threequarters. Campbell and Bogle did many clever things; but even behind winning forwards they were quite outplayed by Milroy and Bowin whose passing was marvellously accurate and effective. At Raeburn Place, there was another fine contest, in which the Edinburgh Acadomicals gained a dramatic victory over Hawick. The Academicals are a variable side; but for this struggle their formards were in force. They carried the scrume. and wheeled in grand style. They outplayed Hawick in the first half by scrum work; though on crossing over the Borderers looked like wiping out their defeat. The Academicals were saved from this possibility by a mishap to Ogilvy,

A telegram from Reuter's correspondent at Peking states that Dr. Sun Ysteen no longer insists on Yuan Shih-kai coming to Nanking. On the contrary, the Government at Nanking will probably go to Paking to co-operate In the restoration of order.

It is reported that bands of soldiers "are looting everywhere in the interior.

A TERRORIST SOCIETY

The special correspondent of the Daily Telegraph at Peking declares mat that there is a Manchu terrorist organisation in existence, which is despatching emissaries to the various centres to invite the soldiery to revolt.

NEW CLAIMANT TO THRONE.

It is expected that a new claimant to the Throne will shortly raise the standard of revolt, in the person of Chu Cheng-yu, a descendant of the Ming Dynasty.

"THE TIMES" ON JAPAN'S ATTITUDE.

(Reuter's Service to the Chilia Mail.)

LONDON, March 6. The Times discussing the state of anarchy now prevailing in North China pays a tribute to the loyalty wherewith the responsible statesmen of Japan, despite all difficulties, had observed the letter and the spirit of the Anglo-Japanese alliance. It emphasises the dangers and inconveniences of foreign intervention, but says that the situation may develop so as to compel the Powers, whereof Great Britain and Japan are most immediately concerned, to concert measures for the restors. tion of order. The Times still hopes that the sturdy commonsairse of the bulk of the Chinese people will enable them to maintain order and unity in the empire and in industrial matters.

REPUBLICANTROOPS ORDERED NORTH.

(Wah Tsz Yat Po's Service.)

SHANGHAI March 5. The Nanking Government has ordered the Republican troops to -proceed to the North by various ways, and the Communication Department has ordered the trains on the Peking Hankow road and the Tientsin-Pokow road to arrange to proceed south to . convey soldiers to the capital.

WEI-HAI-WEI SAFE.

A message from Reuter's correspond. ent at Wei-hai-wei states that the "Republicans are gaining the upper hand, driving the recalcitrants to the southwest. They have killed a thousand.

CHINESE HONESTY AND INDUSTRY. "The Chinese, to judge from what is said of them, are honest, industrious,

"You are told that they are peacoful law abiding, frugal, thrifty, and skilfuland you find that what is referred to is the untiring industry of the millions of petty cultivators, anxious only to be let alone in their rice fields. So far are the Chinese from being peaceful and unaggressive that highway robbery with violence, mudder, and piracy are extremely rife; whilst as for 'law-abiding,' it is admitted on all hands that no Chinese person ever dreams of obeying a law merely because it is law, or, indeed, of obeying any new or unaccustomed law whatsoever, if it can possibly be evaded. "But the European in the Far East is not, as a rule, thinking of these things: . . What the European in the Far East likes in the Chinese is not their virtues, still less their intellectual capacity or practical achievements, but their virtual admission of their inferiority to himself-their docility as servants. Moreover, you are not long in discovering that this universal profession of "liking" for the Chinese character, and of admiration for the Chinese especity-which never, by the way, leads to any real social intimacy, even with the Europeanised Chinese-is only by way of contrast with the Japanese, who are universally disliked in the Far East. It is not so much that the Europeans actually love the Chinese as that they em that cally do not love the Japanese ! And though the Europeans. do not analyse their own feelings, we hexard that the Japanese, unlike the Chinese, 300 to he regarded as equals, and to be regarded the opinion that their dislike of the Japaness proceeds fundamentally from t'e fact as equals, and to be treated as the equals of any other nation, and are making good their claim. A DEGRADED SURVIVAL. "To sum up, this so-called great wrace.

whose expecity is so much extolled by those who profess to admire them, and whose reputed achievements in the distant past claim our respect is, to-day, by al the available evidence, capable of nothing Its sole achievement in the past f w centuries is that it has endured .... We cannot here even hazard a suggestion as to the causes of the sterility or decadence which seems to have fallen on the Chinese people. But we tealise, as we never realised before, the imminence and the gravity of the Yellow Peril. Not that this peril bears any resemblance to the absurd bogey that is usually meant by that phrase. Nor is the danger one of economic competition. The real Yellow Poril is the moral and intellectual decyclence into which this vast empire has fallen : the helpless incapacity of its people to create even a decent social organism : good, social and political, has come to train their rivers so that agriculture (and with it foreign trade) may not be disastrously interrupted. The serious evil that China does us is not to undersall our artisans, but to lower the tone and coarsen the fibre of the European in the Far East. The best defence against this real Yellow Peril is the elevation and training of the Chinese themselves . Those are doing more to ward off from Europe what would be an incalculable disaster, who are helping the Chinese to raise thamselves. The new schools and colleges of the Chinese Government, the educational and medical work of the missionaries, the instrucmiliating degradation before the West n Powers, and to restore to the ted Chinese their national self-respectis tending to diminish the Yokow Pen

Mr and Mrs. Webb live it as their opinion that no Chinese person ever dreams of obeying any new or unsocustomed law, whatsoever, if can possibly be evaded. To our minds this seems merely uninstructed opinion run mad. There is no greater law-abiding nation under the sun than the Chinese, unless, indeed, some now law runs counter to old-established tradition and usage, or touches some point of family tradition or local belief which is sanctified by immemotial usage. But, in their ordinary life, official orders often meet with a cheerful and ready obedience, and the official tag to a proclamation, "Respect this," is much more of a form than's needful command.

CHUMA AND POSITON INTERCOUSES. "On the general question of benefits accruing to Chins from foreign intercourse, it may be safely said that from the time when China (as a result of war) ceded Hongkong to the British Government may be counted the rejuvenation and rehabilitation of that country as world Power that she has benefited in every way from her intercourse with for. eigners, that thanks to duties regularly collected by the Imperial Customs, her finances have materially improved, that their failure to develop the vast natural her from the opening of the treaty ports resources of their country, which are and of the great rivers, and that even perhaps, as extensive as those of the China's forrow, if it had been thoroughly United States; their abject inability even taken in hand by foreign angineers, might have been done away with. What capacity Mr and Mrs Webb have for judging of the dislike entertained by loseigners for the Japanese it is not for us to say. The Japanese are our very good alies and our respected competators. We gradge them no fairly acquired success and we make allowances for their difficulties in turning warrior nation into one composed, in some part, of shopkespers. But we recognise their zeal and their capacity, and the Chin ese nation, reorganised in the Japanese fashion, would still prove dir very good friends.
